

PROSPERO SILVER CORP. PROVIDES CORPORATE UPDATE

September 22, 2020 – Vancouver, B.C. - Prospero Silver Corp (TSX-V:PSL.V) (the “Company” or “Prospero”) The Company herein provides the following corporate update.

As previously reported, in December 2019, the Company successfully disposed of its former Mexican operations and, as a result, avoided costly obligations that would otherwise exist. The disposition allows management to focus on the necessary steps to reorganize the Company’s capital and consider new business opportunities. The first step towards that end was a ten-for-one share consolidation, which was completed in July of this year, reducing the number of issued and outstanding shares from approximately 57 million shares to 5.7 million. Management is of the view that a further share consolidation may be necessary to attract the human resources and investment capital required to secure and manage a business opportunity of merit.

If management determines that a further consolidation is required, then it expects that it will seek the required shareholder approval for a maximum rollback of one new share for three old shares, at the Company’s next Annual General Meeting expected to be held by the end of December 2020. Such further consolidation would reduce the number of outstanding shares to a minimum of approximately 1.9 million. Any new consolidation of the Company’s share capital will be subject to the acceptance of the TSX Venture Exchange.

The Company is continuing to actively solicit prospective business opportunities in the resource and other industry sectors, and has engaged outside advisors to assist as needed. This process has, however, been complicated by limited financial resources, competing interests and COVID-19 restrictions. William Murray, the Company’s Chief Executive Officer, commented: “We will continue to evaluate business opportunities and report, in due course, any material progress regarding our reorganization and recapitalization attempts.”
